Report on a State Level Seminar

Title: Women's Roles in the Contemporary Socio-economic Development of the Country

Date: 10.03.2018

Resource Person: Dr. Sharmila Paul

Coordinator- Prof. Anamika Chakraborty

On 10.03.2018 the department organised a one day state level seminar on women's roles in the contemporary socio-economic development of the country, which was a much needed academic engagement in the present scenario. The seminar was held in view of the International Women's Day(8th march). The chief guest and resource person was Dr. Sharmila Paul and the session was chaired by Prof. Anamika Chakraborty. Both the chairperson and the speaker emphasised on women's roles in contemporary scenario. It was an approach for the social awareness too. Around 150 students from the department took part actively in the seminar and made it a grand success.
